Free Mobile and Orange have signed an addendum to their 2G/3G roaming agreement

Iliad's subsidiary, Free Mobile, and Orange have today signed an addendum to their 2G/3G roaming agreement which runs until the end of 2020. The addendum provides for Free Mobile to gradually stop using the Orange network for national roaming services in France.

Free Mobile – which has respected its two main rollout obligations under its license and has acquired a significant portfolio of frequencies – has invested massively in the rollout of its network and it now covers 84.5% of the French population for 3G and 68.3% for 4G.

In accordance with Article 34-8-1-1 of the French Post and Electronic Communications Code (introduced as a result of the French Act dated August 6, 2015 on promoting growth, business and equal economic opportunities), the addendum will be sent for review to the French telecommunications regulator, ARCEP, which is required to ensure that it complies with the guidelines issued by ARCEP on May 25, 2016.

About Iliad

Iliad is the parent company of Free, the inventor of the Freebox, the first multiservice box on ADSL. Free is behind numerous innovations in the Broadband and Ultra-Fast Broadband access segment (VoIP, IPTV, flat-rate calling plans to multiple destinations, etc.) and provides straightforward and innovative offerings at the best prices. For example, the Freebox Revolution, the 6th generation of Freebox units, includes an NAS and a Blu-Ray™ drive, and the Freebox mini 4K was the first Android TV™ and 4K box on the French market. Free was the first operator to include calls from landlines to mobile phones in its offerings and also calls to French overseas departments (DOM). Since January 2012, Free has brought mobile phone usage within everyone's reach with straightforward, no-commitment offerings at very attractive prices. Subscribers can use their Free Mobile Plan for 35 days per year and per destination when they are traveling in all European Union countries, the United States, Canada, Israel, Australia and Norway (excl. 4G). As at March 31, 2016, Free had over 18 million subscribers (6.2 million Broadband and Ultra-Fast Broadband subscribers and 11.9 million mobile subscribers).
